WHY DID IT WORK?

NOT LUCK. PREPARATION.

It was an insider or close observer who recognized the threat in real time and knew who to call;

Grassroots civic, faith, and neighborhood networks with enough trust to mobilize on short notice; and

Connective tissue between those networks that allowed a Zoom flood and a physical presence at the Capitol to happen in sequence — each timed to the actual pressure point.

Rapid Response

Rapid response is an organizing strategy for responding to developing news, urgent crises, or escalating attacks on the issues and communities we care about. It's about meeting the moment – responding quickly to harness collective outrage and mitigate harm, all while building power for what comes next.
